

1. The nationally broadcasted FM radio station K-LOVE serves me in a positive way everyday. It is one of the very FEW radio stations that I actually listen to, because of the encouragement, hope, love, acceptance, and high moral values that they stand for. They offer a higher, more dignified quality of broadcasting in terms of content. No trashy, vulgar, obscene, or discouraging word has ever been said or implied, and it reminds me daily of the example we need to be to our society, especially to our children, if we expect to have any hope for future generations.
2. If, for whatever reason, K-LOVE were displaced from FM radio broadcasting, i believe that it would greatly effect our local community in a detrimental way. There would be no source of encouragement, no positive uplifting words for those individuals dealing with issues such as death, suicide, drugs, and other situations in which hope seems distant. K-LOVE offers a safe haven to those individuals. They offer counselors, pastors, and staff members that care about the listeners, and are willing to go that extra step to ensure that the listeners feel loved and valued. Without all the help and encouragement that K-LOVE has offered and continues to offer, those individuals might not be alive.
3. It is in the public interest to keep K-LOVE on the air, not only for its counselors, staff, and pastors who take that extra step that no other station takes to invest time into the listener's lives, but also for its positive content. Many of K-LOVE's listeners are children who are in need of a positive role model. Many of the public stations, including tv, are degrading and trashy, offering kids a false idea of what is right. If we continue to let them be under the influences of media today, they will grow up not knowing right from wrong, have a false idea of morals, and most likely fall into the cracks of society with no hope of anything redeeming. But, if we continue to expose them to stations such as K-LOVE, they have the opportunity to learn right from wrong, to see what encouragement looks like, and to feel loved, accepted, and valued. They can learn the truth about public issues as well as develop an attitude of a servanthood and compassion for others who are hurting, needy, and less fortunate. They can learn what helping others looks like, and what building each other up and encouraging one another can do for our self-esteem and self-worth. They can learn to love and accept themselves, and to see the value in their own life as well as the value in each human being.
